

SUNDAY IN HIGH SPIRITS AND LAST NIGHT'S MEETING BRINGS OUT ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE

Evangelist Preach. State Historian and Natural History Society. 'What Must I Do to Be Saved,' Decided Religion Is Not Mysterious and That Becoming a Christian Does Not Change the Person.

Billy Sunday mounted the platform at the tabernacle last evening for the first time in a week feeling fine. That is, he appeared to feel fine; no one can tell just exactly how he does feel, so successfully does he conceal his troubles. But he appeared to be in the best of condition. And this despite the fact that he had already preached two sermons and marched through the downtown section in the Sunday school parade during the day. Perhaps his high spirit was due to some extent to the return to Mrs. Sunday. "Ma" Sunday is a sort of chief adviser to the whole party. It is easy to become discouraged and, while Billy Sunday and the members of his party never become really discouraged, yet it seems that they are more at ease when she is nearby. "Ma" heightened Billy's spirits even after he had gone to his pulpit by confidentially telling his audience that he had wired for her to come back to Colorado Springs; that that was the reason she is here.

Audience Enjoys Service. People at the tabernacle last evening had a good time. They were fewer in number than usual, but they "cut loose" and enjoyed themselves immensely. Only one delegation was present—the young men of the city and the Salvation Army band. But his one started enough to do credit to half dozen ordinary delegations. They had numerous yells one for Chorister Rodeheaver, several for Sunday. They weren't afraid to open up, and Sunday liked them for it.

The spirit was contagious and soon the entire audience was laughing and shouting. It was this spirit that prevailed when the evangelist began his sermon, a sermon which was very good. As has been the case during the last few days, the subject was "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" In beginning his sermon Sunday took several sly glances at the Universalists, Unitarians, Christians, Scientists, and other "heretics" as he styles them. In each case the audience applauded.

MORE THAN 8,000 IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LINE
Parade Was 35 Blocks Long and Greatest That Ever Marched in Springs

Parades of every description have been given at some time or other in Colorado Springs by organizations of every character, but it remained for the church to give the biggest and the most enthusiastically received of them all. More than 8,000 men, women and children marched in the monster Sunday school parade yesterday afternoon, and as many more lined the pavements, especially in the vicinity of the tabernacle, to view it.

Never before has so big a parade, in view of numbers and length, moved through the streets of Colorado Springs. The line extended more than 35 blocks, or three and one-half miles. The line was not impressive as the word is generally used, yet it did impress people. Hundreds wondered at this spirit of righteousness that is sweeping the Pike Peak region. Hundreds marveled that the church could muster so many people to join in a parade and save the Christian banner to the region.

Service Also Impressive. But if the parade was spectacular and impressive, the service at the tabernacle immediately following it was even more so. More than 5,000 of the 8,000 in line went to the tabernacle, each delegation being given a special section of seats. When the last crowd had been seated the big tabernacle resembled a hall just decorated for a social convention. Every delegation carried from one to a dozen banners and almost every child waved an American flag.

Is Making Devil Dizzy. Sunday declared that becoming a Christian does not necessarily mean changing the person. "I used to go as hard for the devil as fast as I go for God now. Being a Christian doesn't change my character," he said, adding, "I'm even speedin' up now—goin' so fast it makes the devil dizzy."

"Religion is not emotional," the evangelist declared, "those emotional people may be moved through their emotions to it." He described with this story:
"Two men came down to a meeting back east. One sat down, put his head between his hands and cried and groaned; then he fell down in the sawdust and rolled and sprawled there, groaning all the while.
"What's the matter with that fellow?" I asked a preacher.
"He's gettin' religion," was the reply.
"Looks more like he's got the stomachic ache," I said.
"The other man was dressed in the height of fashion. He carefully placed his silk hat and silk-lined overcoat on a seat beside him and sat down as calm as a cat."

Seven Hundred and Eighty-eight Delegates. Sessions Will Be Held in Temple Theater.

The state Progressive assembly, to be held at the Temple theater July 22, will be attended by 788 delegates, according to the formal call issued yesterday by State Chairman C. P. Dodge. Costigan, the party's candidate for governor at the election in 1912.

At the assembly candidates for state offices will be nominated. Credentials signed by the proper officers of the party in each county must be filed with Secretary Archibald A. Lee of the state central committee, not later than 24 hours before the assembly convenes.

AUSTRIAN ASSASSINS MAKE FULL CONFESSION OF CRIME

Obtained Bombs From Former Army Officer; Principals Squeal on Accomplices Who Failed to Carry Out Program

VIENNA, July 2.—Nedeljo Gabrinovic, who threw a bomb at Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife while they were proceeding to the Sarajevo town hall last Sunday, today made a complete confession, according to dispatches received from Sarajevo.

In his confession, Gabrinovic says that after learning while at Belgrade that Archduke Francis Ferdinand was going to Sarajevo he communicated with Gavril Princip, who fired the fatal shots, with the result that they resolved to go there also and kill the archduke, the duchess and their suites and die themselves for the fatherland. To obtain bombs, they applied to Major Milan Pribitchevitch, secretary of a panservian union and formerly an officer of the Austrian army, who had joined the Servians. Through him, Gabrinovic says, bombs and revolvers were obtained from the Servian arsenal at Kraguevatz.

Plans Fully Laid. Gabrinovic undertook to find four other bombthrowers, and it was agreed that when the archduke was seen approaching each should hold a bomb in his right hand, and a bottle of poison in his left hand and that he should drink the poison after throwing the bomb.

J. P. MORGAN CONFERS WITH PRES. WILSON

President Discusses Business Conditions of Country With Financier
RESULT OF VISIT UNKNOWN

WASHINGTON, July 2.—For nearly an hour today, President Wilson discussed business conditions with J. P. Morgan at the first of a series of conferences which will bring to the White House men foremost in industry and finance.

It was one of the very few occasions during the 15 months of his administration that the president has received one of the recognized leaders of "big business." Officials said that while the administration's greatest legislative projects were under way—the tariff act, the currency bill and while the trust program was being perfected—the president felt there should be no opportunity for a charge that they were receiving inspiration from business or financial centers. Next that two of the administration reforms have been completed and a third is in a final stage, the president is said to feel that an exchange of thought and information with captains of industry will be conducive to the business revival he expects to see along lines which the administration holds to be legal.

Ford to Be Next Caller. Next week Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, will confer with the president, and after that a delegation from the Chicago Association of Commerce, including representatives of six corporations with nationwide interests, will come for a conference.

Out of these exchanges, the president expects business men to learn that lawful enterprises have nothing to fear from the Democratic administration; that the trust program having reached a point where he foresees its successful completion, business shall have the feet many of its leaders have been asking; and that under the constitution.

BRYAN TREATY FORFEITS U. S. SELF-RESPECT

Roosevelt Denounces Wilson Administration for the Colombian Pact
ONLY CASE OF BLACKMAIL

WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 2.—If the Wilson administration puts through the treaty with Colombia providing for the payment of $25,000,000 to Theodore Roosevelt in a statement tonight it will forfeit the right to the respect of the people of the United States.

Colonel Roosevelt's statement was drawn out by that of James T. Baileys, former minister to Colombia, who assailed the acts of the Roosevelt administration in connection with the Panama revolution. The former president barely referred to the Baileys statement, however, and plunged into a denunciation of the treaty before the senate.

Case of Blackmail. "I have nothing to say about Mr. Dubois," the colonel said in his statement. "He was merely an instrument. Mr. Wilson is responsible for the payment of blackmail to Colombia. Whether he did it on his own initiative or at the instigation of Mr. Bryan is wholly unimportant, and it is of infinitely less importance what particular subordinate was chosen to carry through the discreditable transaction, or to apologize for it in the public press."

Nation Forfeits Rights. "There is small wonder that many hundreds of Americans in Mexico have been endeavoring to become British, German or French subjects in order to get some protection from some government."

"An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited the right to the respect of the people of the United States."

Colonel Roosevelt's reference to Mr. Dubois as an "instrument" related to the draft of a treaty with Colombia prepared by Mr. Dubois, which Secretary Bryan made public recently with the object of showing that the Taft administration was willing to express regret to Colombia for the acts of the Roosevelt administration. It was said later, however, that this draft never was approved by the Taft administration.

AUTO DERBY RACERS HERE THIS MORNING

Spring Motorists to Greet Travelers at Northern Limits of City

Colorado Springs motorists are requested to turn out in force today to greet the All-Colorado Auto derby contestants who will arrive from Denver about 11:30 o'clock this morning. It is planned by the officers of the local automobile club to line the roadway just below the Roosevelt bridge with all the machines possible to welcome the party. It is also requested that residents along Cascade avenue put out flags today in order to give the city a gala appearance when the travelers arrive.

As a special stunt for the visitors the Automobile club has erected a booth on the street parking in Cascade avenue just north of the Anders and will serve lemonade water there free to the incoming motorists. The visitors will check in at Markshetter's garage. They will remain here until 4 o'clock and it is the intention of local motorists to show them every courtesy possible.

In Pueblo Tonight. The motorists will run from here to Pueblo, which is scheduled for the first night control. Fourth of July morning they will motor to Canon City, where they will go to the top of the Royal Gorge and also make the Sky Line drive. On the return run the tourists will arrive in Colorado Springs Sunday for a short stay.

The road race is expected to do much in the way of engendering a spirit of cooperation between the cities of the state through which the run will pass. It is also hoped locally that the run will be the means of securing a better road between this city and Denver.

According to word received last night from C. Lin Bonner, automobile editor of the News and prime mover in the derby, at least 25 cars will enter the run and as many as 50 may be expected. The motorists will start from Denver at 7:30 o'clock and will be headed by Thomas J. Ehrhart, state highway commissioner, who will act as pilot. Cars from Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Denver and Canon City will be entered. The cups, valued at $500, were on display in Denver yesterday and will be brought here today.

DEPUTY KILLS BANDIT, WOUNDS TWO OTHERS

Foils Daring Train Robbery; Pocket Comb Saves His Own Life

PENDLETON, Ore., July 2.—George MacDuffey, a deputy sheriff of Heppner, Ore., fought a single-handed battle with train robbers in the aisle of a chair car 50 miles east of here today, killing one, wounding another and missing death himself when a pocket comb in the upper left hand vest pocket slowed down a bullet aimed at his heart. The car was an Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation passenger train No. 5 westbound.

The dead man was identified by an inscription in his watch as Hugh Whitney, a desperado known for depredations in Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. His wounded companion and a third robber were trailed by possees. They got about $200 from the express car of the train, one diamond ring valued at $700 and a few dollars.

The robbers boarded the train when it slowed down to drop a helper engine. They heeded the crew into the express car and, finding no great reward in the safe, decided to rob the passengers. A request that women be left undisturbed was "used to" and one robber remained to guard the crew. The others encountered MacDuffey. After the shooting, the wounded bandit dragged himself back to the express car, summoned his companion and escaped.

A quantity of explosives was found near the track. Thomas Gurdane, former chief of police of Pendleton, telephoned tonight that he had arrested at Bingham Springs, three strangers who rode into the place late today on horses thoroughly laden. They were 40 miles from the scene of the robbery. The men are to be brought to Pendleton for investigation.

tion of freedom, as the president has christened the trust program, commerce and finance, respecting the laws, will not be harassed by the federal government.

Morgan and Wilson Old Friends.

Whether Mr. Morgan came at his own request or at the invitation of the president was not established.
That point often is left in doubt as to important White House calls. Of fields said Mr. Morgan asked for the engagement. Another version was that mutual friends arranged for Mr. Morgan to "talk things over." The two men have been acquainted for some time. Mr. Morgan knew the president at Princeton and the personal element in the call was a large one.
Hele was, however, an agreement that Mr. Wilson should make any announcement concerning the conference.
He told inquirers that the talk had been a cordial one, largely reminiscent, and that Mr. Morgan expressed no opinion on whether business was good or bad. The president added that the attitude of business men seemed to be growing in favor of the administration trust program. Whether the conference had contributed to that conviction was not disclosed.

No Change in Program.

White House officials declared the president had no thought of altering his legislative program. Throughout the campaign, as Mr. Wilson styled it, for a halt in the trust bills, which he declared was the cause of a "psychological" depression, reports came to the White House from the business world that it was believed the president did not wish to discuss his policies with the men vitally interested in them.

White House officials say that impression was wholly inaccurate and that the president's only reason for not consulting business leaders was that while at work upon a definite program he did not wish to have to take the appearance of having been influenced. While the currency bill was in passage, he declined to receive some members of Mr. Morgan's firm.
It was revealed that aside from James Speyer, the banker, the president had discussed public policies with no other big men of the business world. Mr.
Speyer came to give the president some information on Latin-American finances. Andrew Carnegie and James J. Hill have been received at the White House, but their visits have been purely personal and of very short duration.

Financier Maintains Silence.

Mr. Morgan ran the gamut of a rapid fire of questions as he emerged from the White House through a small sea of correspondents.

"My visit with the president was very cordial. You will have to ask him what we talked about," was his response to all questions as he drove away.

Later, a persistent questioner pressed
Mr. Morgan a little closer.

"Mr. Morgan," he asked, "has the president sent for you and the other business men of the country, or are the business men coming here to talk to him?"

"Don't you think we ought to," rejoined Mr. Morgan with a suspicion of emphasis which might be interpreted according to the point of view of the inquirer.

The remainder of the afternoon Mr.
Morgan spent observing what freedom of world figures may enjoy in the capital of his own country. At luncheon, sitting in a hotel cafe alone, Armed General McReynolds and Secretary Garrison almost rubbed elbows with him, apparently all three men oblivious of the other's identity, and a dozen other newsmen known for luncheon did not recognize him.

Stopped by Doorkeeper.

When he went to the senate a tactful doorkeeper barred the way to the private gallery used by guests of senators. Mr. Morgan, hat in hand, tried to pass in.

"Got a ticket to get in here?" demanded the sentry.

"No, but I am acquainted with Senator Root," ventured Mr. Morgan.
"Can't help that," responded the guardian of the door with an air of finality, "go around to that other gallery where they let anybody in without a ticket."

Mr. Morgan found a seat in a sprinkling of such men, sightseers, tourists and idlers as find their way to the congressional galleries on a summer day. Senator Cummings was making a speech on the administration's trade commission bill. Unacknowledged by anyone in the gallery or senators upon the floor, Mr. Morgan listened nearly an hour, leaning forward eagerly as if to catch more clearly a point that interested him especially. He returned to the railway station some time before the hour of his departure, took a chair in one of the public cars and started back to New York.

REBEL CONFERENCE HELD AT TORREON TO MEND BREACH

EL PASO, July 2.—Interest in the Mexican situation centered today in the conference of constitutionalist leaders at Torreon, the purpose of which, it was said, was to mend the breach between General Carranza and General Villareal. No fighting was reported from any quarter.

As far as was known, however, General Carranza himself had not been a party to the treaty with General Villareal, intended to do away with the strangeness between the northern zone commander and the commander-in-chief, which has hampered both the progress of the mediation fostered by the Washington government and the military program of the Constitutionalist revolution.

Gen. Antonio Villareal, who arrived today at Torreon from Saltillo, and Gen. Ernesto Santos Coy, who assisted Villareal in the Torreon attack, were reported as having begun discussions with Villareal and General Angeles of their misunderstandings with Carranza.

Various Leaders Confer.

If Carranza has sanctioned the proceeding it has been done through Gen.
Pablo Gonzalez, according to the opinion of agents of both factions here.
If General Obregon, the western commander, is represented in the conference, names of his delegates were not announced.

Prospects for securing ample supplies of coal in northern Mexico have resulted in commercial as well as military plans. It was announced that three coal mines of English ownership in Coahuila state would be put in full operation as soon as certain guarantees were secured from the Constitutionalist government. This would give the revolutionaries coal supplies to run their railroads, lack of which has hampered seriously military movements. It also probably would open the many smelters of the American Smelting and Refining company, which have been forced to shut down for lack of fuel. The Coahuila mines, it was said, have been operated by the revolutionaries although not actually confiscated.

Carranza Agents Late.

TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, July 2.
—For reasons unknown here, the Carranza delegates who were expected to arrive here this morning did not leave Saltillo until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
They are due here tomorrow morning to begin discussions with representatives of General Villareal for the purpose of adjusting matters which officials here say have been brought up against the division of the north by General Carranza.

The personnel of the conference will be as follows: For the division of the northeast, General Antonio J. Vi-llareal, Isidro N. Villareal, and Gen.
Cesar Castro; for the division of the north, Gen. J. Isabel Robles, Manuel Bonilla and Dr. Miguel Silva. The conference will be held at Torreon.

Americans Drink Less, but Chew and Smoke More, U. S. Report Shows

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Americans drink less whisky during the last 12 months than they did the year before, but they consumed more beer and smoked a great many more cigarettes.
Reports to the internal revenue commissioner, made public today, showed that receipts for the fiscal year just closed totaled $84,069 less than for the previous year, and most of this decline was due to the marked falling off in tax collected on distilled spirits.
In the first 11 months of the fiscal year, there was a decrease of $3,784,857 in the income from the manufacturer

MEDIATION ENDS; FUTURE IN DOUBT

PEACE ENVOYS LEAVE NIAGARA FALLS

Consul Silliman Returns to Saltillo to Aid Both Sides in Conference

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 2.—
With the departure tonight of Ambassador Pa. Garcia of Brazil, Minister Naon of Argentina and the American delegation, consisting of Justice Lamar, Frederick W. Lehmann and H. Perceval Poe, diplomatic secretary, the pan-american mediation conference formally ended its sessions here.

Minister Suarez of Chile and the Huerta delegates will leave tomorrow.
When and where the next meeting will be held depends for the present upon General Carranza, who is now consulting his subordinate chiefs about sending delegates to a conference with the Huerta delegates for the selection of a new provisional president.

Silliman Returns.
WASHINGTON, July 2.—Fully instructed on the Washington government's attitude toward every phase of the Mexican problem, John R. Silliman will leave tomorrow for Saltillo to represent the United States at the temporary capital of General Carranza, first chief of the Constitutionalists.

It is understood that he goes usually as President Wilson's personal envoy, to talk with the revolutionary leader, to lead a hand, if occasion offers, in beating the Carranza-Villareal breach, and particularly to further impress upon the Constitutionalists the urgent necessity of early peace in Mexico through a provisional government as proposed in the Niagara Falls mediation conference.

Silliman, who was a classmate of President Wilson at Princeton, is the regularly accredited vice and deputy consul at Saltillo. He returns to his post, now General Carranza's headquarters, under commission recently given by General Huerta.

Recently Held Prisoner.

A few weeks ago he was a prisoner there, charged by Huerta officials with aiding their enemies, and his release was granted only on condition that he leave Mexico not to return.

While the administration was arranging for the vice consul's departure, Constitutionalist agents here were looking to learn by telephone what was going on at Saltillo. Late tonight it was said that no definite information had come either as to the status of the internal differences, or concerning General Carranza's conference with his generals over the proposal of the South American mediators that the Constitutionalists and delegates of Huerta meet to discuss plans for peace and a provisional government.

MEXICO SAYS PEACE PROTOCOL IS SIGNED

Claims Dignity of Republic
Has Been Saved Through Mediation

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—"Peace between Mexico and the United States was definitely agreed yesterday in a treaty signed by the Mexican delegates at Niagara Falls. It is impossible to give the details until the Mexican senate has acted on the protocol."
This statement was given out this afternoon by Acting Foreign Minister Esteve Ruiz, who added that the dignity and sovereignty of Mexico had been saved.

Copies of messages sent by the Mexican government to the governments of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, thanking them for their mediation, also were given out at the signing protocol, it is believed, will be submitted to the senate tonight.

TAKE LIFE EASY TO STOP HEART DISEASE, DECLARE DOCTORS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.— Lolling means longevity, and would save the present generation from heart disease, declared Dr. G. H. Harris Wells of the Hahnemann Medical college, Philadelphia, in a paper read today before the American Institute of Homoeopathy.

"It means that the heart simply has to push the blood through the arteries and veins," he said. "Instead of having to lift 150 tons more than four feet from the ground daily during the time an ordinary human being is awake. People of the earlier periods and the savages lolled at every opportunity, stretching out flat while eating and lying on their backs while resting. They didn't have heart disease, and the copying of their methods would save the present generation from that ailment."

Dr. J. I. Dowling of Albany, N. Y., president of the American Homoeopathic and sale of distilled liquor. Estimates on June receipts indicated the total decline in distilled liquor tax for 12 months will probably be $4,250,000.
Receipts from tobacco taxes show an approximate increase over last year of $2,300,000.

HUERTA DELEGATES RECOGNIZE REBELS

Note Addressed to Mediators May Be Transmitted to Constitutionalists

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 2.—The Huerta delegates tonight made public the note which they transmitted to the mediators early in the day. Although it is addressed to the three diplomats it is to be communicated to the mediators as fit to the responsible agent of the Constitutionalists.

Significant of its conciliatory spirit is the fact that the note refers to the Carranza forces as "Constitutionalists," whereas heretofore the Huerta government has referred to its opponents as rebels. The note says in part: "The undersigned delegates, foreign to the struggle of which Mexico is the scene and perhaps because of this circumstance, selected to form the international difference to represent any party because the national honor and external peace are the highest interest of all parties and of a Mexico. Neither do we need to represent any party at the conference we may possibly hold with the delegates of the other because it suffices us to represent the national aspiration for peace which is the real national sentiment and which is also all the animosities aroused by civil war."

Peace Only Aim

"The basis of the agreements which will insure external peace, the restoration of international harmony and in a word, national rebirth and national peace, lies in the organization of a provisional government in Mexico. If it is organized all which will remain to be done will be the execution of the agreements which promise these things."

If it is not organized the agreements lacking their base will be destroyed and Mexico's situation will be the same as before, uncertain for the future and evil for the present.

"As your excellencies say it is the patriotism of real Mexicans who must now work to save Mexico. We delegates have put forward our utmost efforts which we are still ready to exhaust to the end that the peace agreements may be carried out by means of the organization of a provisional government effected in accord with the Constitutionalists' delegates."

Need of Patriotism

"We must trust that patriotism will do its part among the Constitutionalists but should this not be the case we will not bear the burden of a grave responsibility."

We have made this exposition of our conception of the present situation as we wish to put it before the respectable authority of your excellencies and so far as you see fit to do so you may deign to communicate it to the responsible agent of the Constitutionalists party as a step we take toward the rapprochement which your excellencies wish to bring about and maintain.

(Signed) EMILIO RABASA

AUGUSTIN RODRIGUEZ

LUIS EL GUERO

Second Note.

The second note from the Huerta delegates addressed to the mediators gives the viewpoint of the Huerta government on the settlement of its difficulties with the United States and states formally that "peace has been happily concerted between Mexico and the United States."

In part, it says: "In effect, the signature of the protocol corresponding to the session held on the 24th of last month having been concluded yesterday, the negotiations which were the motive of the conference have come to an end by means of the agreements put on record in the various protocols signed and by which peace has happily been concerted between Mexico and the United States for even if the basis of the agreement is the organization of a provisional government in Mexico such organization is exclusively reserved to the parties contending in the civil war in our country."

Parents Who Want Their Children Taught Religion at School Shirk Duty

DETROIT, July 2.—Those who would have their children taught religion in school are shirking the duty they should perform themselves, declared Dr. Henry Frederick Cope of Chicago, secretary of the Religious Educational association, in his address on "The Recent Progress of Religious Education," at the annual meeting of the central conference of American rabbis here today. He urged against the teaching of the Bible in public schools.

After the speaker had left the hall, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York criticized the Religious Educational association, an organization noncreedal in its scope, of which Bishop Charles D. Williams of this city is president.

Although the Religious Educational association is 18 or 12 years old," said Rabbi Wise, "not one Jew has ever been asked to sit in its councils or take part in its meetings. Some of us have been asked to lend the organization our financial assistance, but we have something more than money to give the movement."

SALEM APPEALS FOR AID FOR ITS FIRE SUFFERERS

BOSTON, July 2. Governor Walsh telegraphed to President Wilson today asking that the national government appropriate $200,000 for the assistance of Salem fire sufferers. He also sent messages to the governor of each state and the mayors of all large cities in the country urging the need of funds. He said that $1,000,000 would be required to meet the emergency.

The request for aid was made after an opinion had been given by Attorney General Bryan that the state constitution would not allow the legislature legally to make an appropriation of state money for a city's relief.

ENGLAND IS ANXIOUS TO AVERT CIVIL WAR

Both Sides Willing to Consider Amendments to the Home Rule Bill

LONDON, July 2.—The debate in the house of lords today on the bill to amend the home rule bill was characterized by general recognition on the part of Unionist peers that some means of settlement must be found and that the amending bill offered the only way to avert civil war in Ireland.

The Marquis of Londonderry, Unionist leader, already had announced that it was necessary to find a way out of the difficulty which threatened and that, therefore, the Unionists would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage.

The Duke of Abercorn, speaking today as an Ulster volunteer, said he looked upon the bill as the only hope for the avoidance of a most awful calamity.

All Would Avert War. The Marquis of Londonderry, chairman of the Ulster Unionist council, said the bill was a horrible one, but he would support it to avoid an armed conflict.

He would support the amending bill for the same reason, much as he disliked it. He expressed the hope that Lord Willoughby de Broke could be induced, in the interests of a settlement, to drop his amendment for the rejection of the bill.

The Earl of Halsbury, once the most irreconcilable of the "die hards," hoped so, too, for nothing could be more urgent, he said, than the necessity of making some sacrifices in order to avert civil war.

Nationalists Get Arms. DUBLIN, July 2.—In the absence of the police, the Irish nationalist volunteers succeeded tonight in landing here 300 cases of ammunition and 800 cases of rifles. The arms and ammunition were taken from a boat which had been hovering about the coast off Dublin for two days.

THREE KILLED, THREE HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

DANVILLE, Ill., July 2.—Three persons were killed and three severely injured late today when a passenger train struck an automobile at Hopkings, owned by Ben Williams of Danville, containing the latter, D. L. Ogden, brother of Benmark, his wife, daughter and mother-in-law, Mrs. Emily Standish, and the latter's daughter, Miss Alice Standish, of Salem, Ind. Ogden was found dead on the spot, and Mrs. Standish died soon after, and Miss Standish died at the hospital tonight.

TWO ARRESTED FOR BUTTE DISORDERS

Sheriff Searching for a Number of Others; Full Probe Is Ordered

BUTTE, Mont., July 2.—Two men alleged to have had a hand in the recent destruction of the miners' union hall and the blowing up of the safe are in the county jail tonight and efforts are being made by the sheriff's officers to arrest others for whom warrants have been issued.

"Red" Foley, arrested late last night, is charged with grand larceny in taking away $1,000 belonging to the miners' union. This is alleged to be the amount of money in the safe when it was dynamited June 13.

John Tomich was arrested early today as he came off shift in the Stewart mine, charged with being one of the men who compelled the engineers of the Stewart, at the point of a gun, to lower him into the mine where the dynamite used in the destruction of the miners' union hall was obtained.

County Attorney McCaffery said today that information soon would be filed against several persons. Foley and Tomich are to appear before District Judge Donlan tomorrow for arraignment.

SUNDAY IN HIGH SPIRITS LAST NIGHT, AND MEETING BRINGS AN ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE

and undisturbed as you can imagine. Was the man who rolled around on the floor completely converted than the one who was unmoved? No! One boohooed sweeter than the other, that's all.

Religious Mysterious. Others religion is mysterious and for that reason they can't accept it, the evangelist declared. "So this mysterious," he shouted, holding up a pitcher of water. "H2O (college for water). Two gases got mixed up, (this being the result, I don't know how it happened), it's mysterious. It's God's business to distill the water. I shouldn't question that. But I'm thirsty. This isn't mysterious, and he lifted the pitcher and took several deep draughts. Lowering the pitcher, he said with a smile: "How God distills that water has got my goat, but I'd be a fool to choke to death because it's a mystery."

He compared himself to a recruiting officer in an army. "I enlist," the preacher droned, "he said, stamping around the platform and shouting orders at the top of his voice. Speaking of baptism, Sunday declared himself in favor of it, but said it made no difference as to whether immersion or sprinkling was the form used. "Just obey the command of God and be baptized," he advised, illustrating by saying: "A skeptic stood on top of a mountain and said: 'If there is a God, let him send a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky and strike me dead now.' A snail flew down his throat and choked him to death. I'll tell you, God doesn't use 19-inch shells to kill a canary bird."

Then he concluded his sermon with an elaboration on several verses of scripture, answering the question, "What shall I do to be saved?" illustrated with several highly interesting stories.

Says City Is Fortunate. In his prayer Sunday said Colorado Springs is the most fortunate city in America today, in that it is the only city in which a revival of any size is being conducted.

When he extended his invitation, a body of 25 men from the young men's delegation responded instantly. Later two more crowds from the same delegation came. Many of them, however, already were professing Christians.

When the second crowd of 25 started down the aisles after much talking by Sunday, the evangelist turned to "Body" and said gleefully: "Speed up; she's breaking!"

"She" did break, too, practically the entire delegation marching to the front before the service was over.

A feature of the song service was a selection by a ladies' double quartet. The same body will sing at the women's service tonight.

MORE THAN 8,000 IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LINE

"Two months," came another voice. "Too young," Sunday laughed, "we're talking about marching now." And so it went for 15 minutes.

Everybody Was Happy. The delegations were made up of from a dozen or so to almost 100 people. Throughout the first of the service the men and women and boys and girls stood up and waved their flags and banners and shouted at the tops of their voices. Sunday sat on the platform and laughed like a boy from start to finish. Several of the church delegations concluded the song service with a special song to Billy Sunday.

The parade formed at North Park and as Sunday announced Wednesday night, "kicked off promptly at 12:45 o'clock." Needless to say everyone who intended to take part was in line on time. The parade moved south on Nevada to Huertano to Tejon to Platte to the tabernacle. Marchers were still falling in line at the starting point when more than one-half the participants were seated in the tabernacle. It required just 45 minutes to review the entire procession.

The parade was led by Commissioner of Public Safety D. G. Johnson and a platoon of police. Following were city and county officials, tabernacle upholders and then Billy Sunday and his party. As the big little evangelist passed the crowds along the pavements shouted and cheered and he acknowledged the salute with a wave of his hand and a smile.

"Remember Thy Creator" was the subject taken by Mr. Sunday for his sermon at the tabernacle, immediately following the parade. The talk was directed to children, the sort of plea for them to become Christians, young men. He pointed out the difficulty of changing their lives as they become older, illustrating his points with excellent stories, many of them his best humorous ones.

At the conclusion of his sermon he extended an invitation to children, 163 responding.

PROHIBITIONISTS TO HOLD STATE ASSEMBLY TODAY

Party Favoring Dry Colorado to Meet Here; Will Name State Ticket Tomorrow

The state assembly of the Prohibition party will open this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church and the afternoon's program will consist of addresses. The session is not a convention of delegates, but a mass meeting, and a state ticket will be named at tomorrow's meeting. Today's gathering will be presided over by J. H. Ketchum, chairman of the state committee. The address of the afternoon will be made by the Rev. G. H. Stutz of Colorado City.

Tomorrow's meeting will begin at 10 a. m. and the Rev. C. F. Rippey will make the address. Following this the convention will adopt resolutions and name its state ticket.

Church Faces Problem of Selecting Leaders for Educational Work

KANSAS CITY, July 2.—That the greatest need of every community is for capable leaders with Christian interests who will apply them to the solution of municipal, social, economic and political questions, was asserted by S. Eber Price, president of Ottawa university, Ott.—Kan., in an address before the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, held jointly with the Baptist Young People's Union of the South here today.

He pointed out that one of the first tasks before the church people of the country is to educate the producers of literature, the newspaper men and the magazine men.

"Our task is to seek out these men, who are leaders and who are to be trained in this important activity, and train them in the proper way," he said. "If those who produce our literature and our newspapers, our magazines, and daily papers have been schooled in the teachings of Jesus it will be a determining element in their lives and a tremendous factor in the lives of the whole nation."

used. venge myself on them by betraying them. Leave me alone until tomorrow and I will give more details." Grabes has been arrested and admits having received bombs and poison.

Bodies Reach Vienna. VIENNA, July 2.—The bodies of the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, arrived at the Southern railway station here at 10 o'clock tonight on board a special train from Trieste.

Prince Montenegro, the court chamberlain, and other high officials were in waiting.

Escorted by halberdiers and life guardsmen, the coffins were carried to the imperial waiting room, which had been converted into a temporary chapel, where they were blessed by court chaplains. They were then carried out and placed in two great black coffins.

The funeral procession, which meantime had formed outside, started for Hofburg. Two outriders, carrying lighted lanterns, led the cortege. They were followed by an advance guard of cavalry. Then came an official on horseback, known as the "Hofinspazier," dressed in the picturesque costume of a Spanish cavalier.

Court Procession. The court carriages were next in line. Two outriders preceded the hearse, each of which was drawn by six black horses. On either side walked noncommissioned officers and sergeants. A special guard of 12 halberdiers and 12 mounted life guardsmen with drawn swords followed the hearse, and two carriages with the auliers of the archduke and the duchess completed the cortege.

No troops were stationed along the route, but the procession made its way between the lines of a moving military guard. At the Hofburg the master of ceremonies and the palace clergy awaited the cortege at the foot of the ambassadors' staircase and walked slowly forward to meet it, preceded by the boy choir of the court chapel, chanting: "Meerere."

After a short benediction the chamberlain of the late archduke handed the keys of the coffin to Prince Montenegro; the chapel was locked and all departed.

Chapel Too Small. The Hofburg chapel is very small, accommodating not more than 200 persons, and will prove utterly inadequate for such a ceremony as that of tomorrow. All the seats have been removed and the walls and floor covered with black cloth. On one side of the walls hangs an escutcheon bearing the archduke's arms. It is surmounted by silver sconces with lighted candles. The arms of the duchess similarly adorn the opposite wall.

Silver candlesticks holding lighted wax tapers surround the catafalque, at the foot of which are cushions for the archduke's crown and the Austrian, archducal two-pointed hat, his general's plumed hat and sword and all his orders and decorations.

At the foot of the coffin of the duchess repose her orders, a pair of long white kid gloves and her fan, in accordance with the Austrian custom. Only One Imperial Attendant. The only member of the imperial family who attended the ceremonies tonight was Archduke Charles, a son of Joseph, now heir to the throne, who at the last moment decided to go to the station to meet the body.

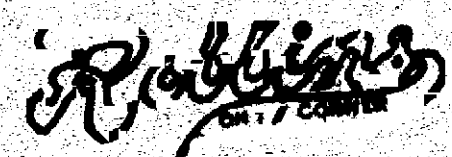

After the foot of each archduke's coffin and along the whole route to the Hofburg, standing bareheaded and in profound silence as the cortege passed. It was officially announced tonight, to the appointment of the Vienna populace, that an attack of typhoid would prevent the Ottoman emperor from attending the funeral.

The anti-Serbian agitation, which is becoming an exceedingly dangerous symptom, shows no sign of abating. Even while the funeral cortege was on its way to the Hofburg, hundreds of excited students were engaged in a desperate struggle with the police to reach the Serbian legation, within three blocks of the procession.

Strong forces of mounted and foot guards have guarded all the approaches to the legation ever since the Serbian demonstration on Saturday and when it was seen that the attack would be renewed 500 reinforcements were hastily summoned. The crowd booed and yelled, but the police dispersed the students after a short fight.

The Clothcraft Blue Serge Special has arrived. The price is $15.00

WILLIAM OF WIED WEAK CHARACTER, SAYS U. S. MINISTER

ATHENS, July 2.—George Fred Williams, the American minister to Greece, who recently made public a report of his investigations in Albania in which he denounced the international commission of control and declared that the present regime in Albania was impracticable, issued a new statement tonight, justifying his former statement and emphasizing the danger menacing Epirus through the rapid advance of the Albanian vessels.

Mr. William prefaced his new statement by the declaration that it is made without any preliminary understanding with the Epirote insurgent leader, Zogoraph, or the Greek government, and added:

"Although my first statement is criticized as throwing too great a responsibility on Prince William of Wied, I contend that the following statements, on which the accusation was based, cannot be denied by Prince William. William Weak Character. Colonel Thompson (the Dutch commander of the gendarmes who was killed in an insurgent attack on Durazzo) appointed by Prince William commissary general at Argyrocastro, and Koritsa, arranged with Zogoraph conditions of reconciliation. Prince William of Wied directed the political affairs of Albania without regard to the international commission. On Colonel Thompson's return, the Albanian minister rejected the terms he had arranged, and Enver Pasha demanded 25,000 men for the purpose of undertaking the campaign against the Epirotes. Colonel Thompson opposed this, arguing that such a campaign would mean bloodshed and provoke religious hatred that would last many years.

"Enver Pasha's plan was dropped but the prince recalled Colonel Thompson, thus disavowing the only pacific man. Prince William of Wied is a weak character and the powers who nominated him must be held responsible for his actions. He is responsible for the terms he had arranged, and Enver Pasha demanded 25,000 men for the purpose of undertaking the campaign against the Epirotes. Colonel Thompson opposed this, arguing that such a campaign would mean bloodshed and provoke religious hatred that would last many years.

AD HUSBAND ARRESTED;
REFUSES TO PROSECUTE

A woman yesterday cost El Paso county more than $600. It was the story of a wife having her husband arrested and then not appearing for trial, or refusing to give evidence that might result in his conviction.

Two months ago Mrs. W. H. Rees appealed to District Attorney Purcell, asking that her husband be brought back here on the charge of non-support of his family. Rees was located in California and an officer made a special trip to get him. Bringing the man here and his keep in full cost the county $600. Yesterday when the trial was called in the district court Mrs. Rees testified that her husband had been treated kindly and had been released. The district attorney's office remarked that it was just the opposite to testimony given several months ago. The jury found Rees not guilty and he was released.

'Tis 'Snoreious' Fourth Now if Not Glorious New Rules Stop Old Fashioned Celebration

By EARL POTTER.
Things used to be popping on the Fourth of July. Nowadays, though, nothing pops except coals and the thermometer. It's great to be sane. It's so unusual. Tomorrow all should be perfect peace and quiet—theoretically. However, a few small boys, and large ones, too, may still be found in so uncivilized a state as to brazenly fire off a noisy torpedo or Chinese firecracker. But the majority of the city's youth will be as quiet as a Republican enthusiasm meeting.

One, or almost gone, are the days when a legion of little angels joined the heavenly choir on July 4 as a result of badly timed explosions of the glorious Fourth; the days when every street car rolled down the track to the accompaniment of exploding torpedoes, giving a good imitation of the noise of a ripping team; the days of early rising to fire the big giant cracker, the lead pipe-cannon and little red bunches of noisy disturbers.

But why shed a tear? The "Snoreious Fourth" is gone, but the "Snoreious Fourth" is vastly better, according to the revised code. The bureau for the identification of lost appendages is now useless; the doctor's bell is silent on July 4.

There is only one defect in the same Fourth movement. Its supporters have overlooked a good many notes by not including the abolition of the Fourth of July speech in their platform. Who would not rather lose an eyelash or the end of a finger in the red, sordid carnage of an explosive celebration than sit for one hour and 45 minutes under the guns of a July orator and be filled full of platitudinous stuff concerning the deeds of the past?

Of course, tomorrow will be a day of flags, band concerts, baseball, fishing and lemonade, as usual. No one will miss the noise of the former days. The quiet day will probably lessen the sales of the local druggists in the line of headache powders, but who will care? Noise is a needless article anyway. And when the day is ended, let every patriotic citizen, who has not contracted ptomaine poisoning at a picnic, stand with bared head and give three silent cheers and the Chautequa salute for the noble men who fought and died to give this land its independence in the days of long ago.

Texas to Keep Up Good Roads Work

Dear Sir:
I thank you very much for your letter of June 25. I am delighted to know that you enjoyed your trip through Texas and that you appreciate what we are trying to do here in building good roads. Texas is an enormous state, and it will take a long time to construct good roads out of the 100,000 miles of public roads now in operation. We have made much progress in this direction, however, during the three years and a half of my administration. With best wishes, I am,
Yours truly,

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG
Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage T—

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.

Glen Rudy, who is described by police officers as a motorcyclist, was yesterday sentenced to an indefinite term in the state reformatory in the district court. Rudy's sentence was one that had been suspended several months ago when he stole a motorcycle from Grant Simon. At the time the youth was in Carthage, Mo., but while imprisoned in the theft of an automobile and was sentenced to 30 days. At the end of 14 days he was paroled and returned to Colorado Springs. The day after his return he stole an automobile belonging to Dr. B. P. Anderson and was caught by the police just after the theft.

GOVERNOR'S PARTY IS CHARMED WITH REGION
Regret, However, That False Reports Are Injuring Colorado

Governor George W. Hays of Arkansas and party spent a busy half day yesterday in being shown the wonders of the Pikes Peak region from automobiles. They were accompanied on the trip by Mayor McKesson, A. W. Henderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of business and professional men. The trip included a ride up the Pikes Peak road, Cascade, the Garden of the Gods, Mesa road, Broadmoor, South Cheyenne canon, Seven Falls and Colorado Springs. The entire party was completely won by the beauty of the region and all declared that they would spend their summers in this vicinity in the future. The visitors left early in the afternoon to complete their journey home.

Governor Hays was particularly impressed with the fine highways of the region and spoke highly of the convict labor system of road-making. He declared that it was his intention to introduce a similar system in his own state for the upbuilding of roads.

Appreciates Courtesies.
"I am very sorry that I did not have the pleasure of meeting Governor Ammons," said Governor Hays as he was about to leave Colorado Springs yesterday. "But I want to thank Mayor McKesson, Mr. Cotten, Mr. Howbert, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Chudy and Mr. Henderson of the citizen's committee, as well as Fred Wadleigh, J. A. McDougal of the Rock Island and others for the many courtesies they extended to me and my party during our stay. I also wish to extend our grateful thanks to Dr. Samuel Garvin and C. V. Edgar for the opportunity they gave us to hear Billy Sunday Wednesday night."

Two of the party spoke to me in high terms of the members of the Golf club here. They are Col. F. H. T. Hollenberg, who is commissioner general for the Arkansas exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition, and George R. Mann, one of the greatest architects of the country and who has perhaps designed more state capital buildings than any other one person. They enjoyed their little workout on the local links and are anxious to meet some of their opponents on the links of the capital city of Arkansas.

President Virgil A. Beeson of the Arkansas Press association made a few remarks concerning the Colorado labor situation just before the train started for Pueblo.

Didn't Find Outlaws.
"Colorado should do all in its power to correct the impression of existing outlaws within her borders," he said. "People in Colorado may not understand to what extent reports are in circulation that United States troops are to be found everywhere in your state endeavoring to prevent rioting, etc. As a matter of fact, I do not remember having seen a federal trooper in Colorado, and I am at a loss to understand what conditions prevail here when your state authorities cannot enforce the laws. It would be intolerable in our state, and I am sure that Governor Hays would resign before he would acknowledge his inability to preserve and enforce the law of Arkansas."

Mr. Beeson stated that he would do all he could to set the press of his state straight on the conditions existing in Colorado. He was one of the converts to the local scenery and promised to spend some of his future vacations in this vicinity.

GOVERNOR'S PARTY IS CHARMED WITH REGION
Regret, However, That False Reports Are Injuring Colorado

Governor George W. Hays of Arkansas and party spent a busy half day yesterday in being shown the wonders of the Pikes Peak region from automobiles. They were accompanied on the trip by Mayor McKesson, A. W. Henderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of business and professional men. The trip included a ride up the Pikes Peak road, Cascade, the Garden of the Gods, Mesa road, Broadmoor, South Cheyenne canon, Seven Falls and Colorado Springs. The entire party was completely won by the beauty of the region and all declared that they would spend their summers in this vicinity in the future. The visitors left early in the afternoon to complete their journey home.

Appreciates Courtesies.
"I am very sorry that I did not have the pleasure of meeting Governor Ammons," said Governor Hays as he was about to leave Colorado Springs yesterday. "But I want to thank Mayor McKesson, Mr. Cotten, Mr. Howbert, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Chudy and Mr. Henderson of the citizen's committee, as well as Fred Wadleigh, J. A. McDougal of the Rock Island and others for the many courtesies they extended to me and my party during our stay. I also wish to extend our grateful thanks to Dr. Samuel Garvin and C. V. Edgar for the opportunity they gave us to hear Billy Sunday Wednesday night."

Two of the party spoke to me in high terms of the members of the Golf club here. They are Col. F. H. T. Hollenberg, who is commissioner general for the Arkansas exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition, and George R. Mann, one of the greatest architects of the country and who has perhaps designed more state capital buildings than any other one person. They enjoyed their little workout on the local links and are anxious to meet some of their opponents on the links of the capital city of Arkansas.

President Virgil A. Beeson of the Arkansas Press association made a few remarks concerning the Colorado labor situation just before the train started for Pueblo.

Didn't Find Outlaws.
"Colorado should do all in its power to correct the impression of existing outlaws within her borders," he said. "People in Colorado may not understand to what extent reports are in circulation that United States troops are to be found everywhere in your state endeavoring to prevent rioting, etc. As a matter of fact, I do not remember having seen a federal trooper in Colorado, and I am at a loss to understand what conditions prevail here when your state authorities cannot enforce the laws. It would be intolerable in our state, and I am sure that Governor Hays would resign before he would acknowledge his inability to preserve and enforce the law of Arkansas."

Mr. Beeson stated that he would do all he could to set the press of his state straight on the conditions existing in Colorado. He was one of the converts to the local scenery and promised to spend some of his future vacations in this vicinity.

ries to Get Senate to Fix Date for Vote on One of Principal Bills

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Another successful effort was made by Senator Newlands today to have the date fixed for a vote on the trade commission bill and clear the way for other legislation on the trust program that must be disposed of before the session closes. A chorus of objections greeted the senator's proposal at a vote taken tomorrow, and Senator Newlands later made it plain that the date would continue into next week. Senators Works and Reed gave notice at they expected to speak on the measure before final action. Senator Cummins continued his speech today and introduced five amendments to generally broaden the proposed trade commission's authority and empower it to regulate interstate commerce and holding companies in connection with industrial operations, and to give the interstate commerce commission the same authority over railroad corporations. Cummins' answers Borah: Senator Cummins took up in detail a objection raised by Senator Borah while the antitrust laws at present were directed toward fostering competition in the trade commission measure by making "unfair competition" unlawful was directed to limit competition. This objection, he said, was in no way justified and he declared the measure was designed to aid and supplement the antitrust laws. In order to make this point clear, he proposed an amendment providing that no order of the trade commission respecting "unfair competition" should have any force or be admissible evidence in a suit brought under the Sherman law. The amendment also provided: "Nor shall anything herein contained be construed to alter, amend or repeal the Sherman antitrust law or any part thereof."

FASHIONABLE FOLK HEAR BILLY SUNDAY

Potter and His Clay Theme of Short Sermon at North End Home

Billy Sunday conducted the third of his drawing room meetings yesterday morning at the beautiful Cascade avenue residence of A. G. Sharp. As on the occasion of other meetings—in private homes the parlors were crowded with members of the fashionable set. The subject of his talk was "The Potter and His Clay." He took his text from Jeremiah 18:1-4. "Among all the human crafts none is more wonderful than that of the potter," he said. "It is a mingling of the vision of the mind through the functions of the fingers. They give expression to the vision; otherwise it could not be seen. At the same time Jeremiah, called upon the prophet, the people of Israel were in a desperate condition. They had literally given themselves up to sin and the heart of the old prophet was almost breaking. For 40 years he had stood as a bulwark against their idolatry and he cried out to the nation which was rushing headlong. He made his way to the house of the potter. He watched the potter as he put the clay upon the wheel—he watched and listened to the whirling wheel, saw the shapless, inert clay take form and shape, and his subject today grows out of this incident."

Married but Made Again. "Married in the hand of the potter, so he made it again. For some reason the potter was unable to make what he had in mind, but he did not crush and throw it away. He softened the clay, picked out the pebbles and dashed it again on the wheel. Jeremiah cries out in the words of my text: 'Oh, God, I am like the clay and thou art the potter. Fashion us again according to thy will.' We must now, cannot you look back and see the pathway over which you have traveled all littered with broken vows? Somewhere concealed is the hidden secret sin which has become a part of your nature, marring and ruining your life. There was a time when your life was rising like fair and beautiful shape. I look at the clay, it's a symbol of myself, of yourself, inert and lacking form, lacking beauty, but the very stuff that God wants to do his work with. There are senses in which the distance between God and men is greater than between the potter and his clay. God is creator, man his creature. God is infinite, man finite. God can do all things. 'God has a plan for every life. He alone knows the possibilities of each human life. Has something come into your life, some secret sin, some unholiness? Has the vessel you thought would rise beautiful become marred and broken? Have you no peace, no unity? Take hope. God gives you a chance to prove yourself.'"

OPERA HOUSE

"The Girl Spy in Mexico," by Romalene Fielding, will be shown at the opera house today. In the hills of old Mexico the skirmishes continue intermittently for weeks. Lieutenant Blanco's sweetheart, Senorita Armaje, having no word from him goes to his camp, finds him, and determines to work for her lover's side of the controversy. She dons the garb of a Red Cross nurse, enters the federal lines, and conveys to Blanco from time to time important information. She is finally discovered stealthily returning to camp and is placed under arrest. The spy who has been sent out by the federal Colonel Ferro, is badly wanted by the insurgents, and is thrown into the hands of the insurgents' leader by the bravery of Armaje, who, as he is climbing over a cliff, chips the rope into two, with rocks and throws him into their arms. Lieutenant Blanco conceives the idea of dressing in federal uniform and entering the federal camp in person, using the spy to show him the way. After arriving in said camp, he discovers that his sweetheart has been placed under arrest on the serious charge of being a spy. He effects her escape. Colonel Ferro, a notorious federal officer, after learning of her departure, makes dire threats to capture every insurgent in his territory and starts out to accomplish his end. He invades the insurgents' stronghold, and there, after terrific fighting, he accomplishes his desire, and Lieutenant Blanco and his sweetheart are made prisoners of war, the colonel marching them onward to what end is not known.

EMPEROR

"The Little House in the Valley," at the Empress today—Prentiss, a retired literary man in ill health, has created a garden solitude for himself and his young wife down in a small lonely valley. David Scott arrives to take charge of the preliminary survey of a new railroad. At once in the helpless invalid's mind hatred takes possession and an almost insane determination to thwart David's plan that means the destruction of this desert solitude. David leaves the place with his survivors, much alarmed by Prentiss' bitter opposition, but remembers a raid by Mexicans and writes a note to Laura directing her to call for help at his camp if the outlaws return. Laura is seized and bound by Valdez and his men, who proceed to the house and find Prentiss alone. He tells Valdez that a man is on his way to the camp. At first murderously angry, Valdez listens to the invalid and agrees to his proposition. Prentiss pours all his money and valuables into the outlaws' hands if the latter will ride by a roundabout route to the camp while the survivors are on their way to the house and destroy their maps and instruments. Laura has not herself free and overhears the interview and as the outlaws return to their horses in the rear of the house she takes to the road and starts for the camp on foot. She intercepts David and his rescue party and they lay a trap for Valdez. Death hastens to claim Prentiss. David promises to remain near the house of mourning, and goes forth into the night to think of the future.

When President Taft was in office his favorite recreation was a high-powered automobile. Coming to a quiet little stretch of road, the former president was not averse to having the high speed touched up a little. Colonel Roosevelt also was fond of speed. One of the officials of the White house said recently: "President Wilson will go down in history among other things, as the most careful automobilist in the White house. It is not particularly for him, but because of pedestrians, and drivers of horses that he insists on comparatively low speed." They tell one story which may or may not be true concerning the president's extreme caution. According to the report, the president was driving to a country club one day, when he passed within an inch of a given object while running at 50 miles an hour—are constantly on watch, lest the speedometers start to climb on them. About the only person in the garage who is happy is the automobile washer, who has it figured out that the slower automobiles run the less dirt they accumulate. Ever since a presidential automobile was held up outside of Hyattsville the White house machines have been passed by about everything on the road. Recently one of those runabouts, the type that sounds like a lawn mower and travels with a limp, actually went ahead of the big seven-passenger car which President Wilson occupies. The cause of the sorrow is manifest. The engines in the White house cars are of the latest type and can, without an effort, run the machine up to 60 miles an hour. And on the road it is extremely difficult to gauge speed up.

Is the policewoman a success? Chief of Police Peterson of Oakland, Cal., after investigating the work of the local policewomen, finds that that city can give a very decisive and enthusiastic answer to this in the affirmative. There are some of the things a policewoman does: She goes into dance halls where she has seen a girl who would not go there and over whom the law has authority and takes her home. They go through the city looking for the discouraged, the deluded, the immoral, and to each, according to her kind, is administered the proper treatment by these two women of the police force who are the friends of the victims and the abandoned. The chief of police is so pleased with the work that they have been doing that he has asked for an additional squad of policewomen.

Lynch is in the county jail and will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice Madden this morning. Detectives were talking together yesterday morning on a street corner when Lynch passed them. He was recognized and arrested.

TAKES ISSUE WITH TEDDY ON COLOMBIA TREATY AND MONEY

Former Minister Says Colonel Is Wrong About Plan
for Blackmail

HALLSTEAD, Pa., July 2.—In a statement issued here tonight dealing with the proposed Colombian treaty, James T. Dufosse, who was United States minister to Colombia under the Taft administration, takes issue with the views recently expressed by Colonel Roosevelt and explains his own reasons for supporting the treaty.

Regarding his difference with Colonel Roosevelt on this subject, Mr. Dufosse expresses regret at opposing "a great leader whose fortunes I once followed for 10 years," and states that "no man will tolerate the thought that any of Colonel Roosevelt's acts were inspired by tainted motives, but no man is always right."

Negotiations for a treaty during the Taft administration failed, he says, because his instructions, out of excessive care not to impugn the motives of President Roosevelt, were too strict. Panama, failed to give Colombia sufficient justice. The pending treaty, he believes, should be heartily approved by the American people.

Taking issue with Colonel Roosevelt regarding the character of the public men in Colombia, Mr. Dufosse declared that they compare well with the public men of other countries in intelligence and respectability. Instead of being "blackmailers and bandits,"

Quoting Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution, he says, "a handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it and not the hundredth part of the inhabitants of the isthmus knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States army raised the flag of the new republic."

The claim made by Colonel Roosevelt that the Colombian treaty is a blackmailing agreement is dealt with by Mr. Dufosse in his interpretation of the document.

No Apology Offered.

"While negotiating for a treaty I made the Colombian authorities understand that under no circumstance would the United States apologize to a nation for a political act—that was our unwritten law that never had been broken. It was broken in purely informal conversation, and in my unofficial memorandum, I suggested that a chivalrous expression of regret that our friendship had in any way been marred, such as any real gentleman would freely grant to another, might later be embodied in the treaty as a balm for the wounded feelings of a once friendly nation which had been humiliated before the world, whose credit had been destroyed in foreign countries, whose borrowing ability had been annihilated and whose persistent appeal for arbitration had been ignored. The opposition to this feature on the ground that it is an apology is not just and is not in the true interests of the United States. If the Anglo-Saxons are to live in harmony with the Latins on this continent they must treat them with absolute justice as we shall exact justice from them."

Dealing directly with article III of the treaty providing a payment to Colombia which Colonel Roosevelt attacked as blackmail, Mr. Dufosse describes the claim of Colombia for the unpaid annuities on the cession of the Trans-Isthmian Railroad company, the reversionary rights in the Panama railroad and Panama's portion in the Colombian national debt, all of which, in his opinion, should be met by the United States.

M'ALPINE KILLED SELF OR MURDERED BY WIFE, CHARGE

DULUTH, Minn., July 2.—That John McAlpine, wealthy lumberman found dead in the basement of his home here last August, either committed suicide or was murdered by his wife, Sarah McAlpine, is the defense outlined today in an amended answer to the widow's suit, filed by the Pacific Mutual Accident company of Los Angeles, the Fidelity & Casualty company of New York and the London Guaranty & Accident company limited.

At the time of McAlpine's death a coroner's jury found that he was shot "by persons unknown," but no arrests ever were made. Mrs. McAlpine's suit is set for next month.

The amended answer of the companies as filed today charges that Mrs. McAlpine "struck or caused to be struck the blow that broke the skull, and fired or caused to be fired the shot that entered the brain of John McAlpine."

Mrs. McAlpine is the beneficiary under the policies.

ADMINISTRATION CLOSES YEAR WITH BALANCE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—There was great elation in Democratic circles here today over the fact that the Wilson administration closed the fiscal year Tuesday expenses by $33,784,452.07. The figures, as announced by the treasury department, showed that the total receipts aggregated $734,343,700.20, while total disbursements were $700,559,248.13. The total receipts were a million and a half more than original estimates, Secretary McAdoo said.

The treasury surplus this year, however, will be turned into a deficit of $1,010,068.81 when payments for the Panama canal aggregating $34,825,941, during the last twelve months, have been charged against the general fund of the treasury.

CONTESTS IN EATING CHERRIES

From the London Chronicle.

Cherries, now plentiful in the markets, were known in England two thousand years ago, but their systematic cultivation dates only from the beginning of the sixteenth century. From the first Kent was the great cherry county, and it was once a favorite amusement in the Kentish orchards to try who could eat the largest quantity of the fruit at a sitting. Busino, Venetian ambassador at the court of St. James, witnessed one of these contests when the winner was a young woman who disposed of 20 pounds of cherries, beating her nearest rival by only 2½ pounds.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS "SETTLED"

AMBASSADOR DA GAMA of Brazil, spokesman for the A. B. C. mediators, announces with pleasure "the practical settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico." Just how it has been settled is not quite clear. A few days ago the total collapse of the negotiations, was predicted, and news reports have told of nothing since then to explain the changed aspect of the case.

Villa and Carranza are still at outs, though there are reports of an early adjustment of their differences. Villa is steadily forcing his way toward the capital for the final struggle, with every probability of ultimate success. Huerta is said to be getting desperate and a dispatch quotes him as saying that "before he resigns or is forced out half of the people in the city of Mexico will be killed." An American force is still in possession of Vera Cruz, and the salute to the flag which was the nominal reason for the seizure is still numbered among the things to come.

If there is anything in the situation to justify the belief that our troubles with Mexico are at an end it is known only to the mediators. As it looks now Huerta will soon be ousted and Villa will be triumphant throughout the land. Of course, he will proclaim himself president, or dictator, and how is Mr. Wilson to make good his declaration that he would recognize him as such? To recognize this red-handed brigand as president of Mexico would be infinitely worse than a recognition of Huerta would have been.

We hope the mediators are right, and that a solution has really been found, but it would be mighty interesting to know also just what that solution is.

THE FOLLY OF ASSASSINATIONS

POLITICAL assassinations present a curious problem in psychology. Most of them, especially in Europe, are committed by avowed anarchists who glory in their crime even up to the minute of their own execution. Often the criminals are men of more than average education. In Russia especially many of them are university students, and the slayer of Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife was a Serbian student.

Assuming that the assassins of royalty are generally men of at least average intelligence, it is hard to understand what they expect to gain by their crimes. If they were familiar with the history of such affairs they could not point to an instance in which political or economic advancement has been made by killing the ruler of a country. In one notable case, the assassination of the Czar Alexander II of Russia, progress was actually set backward many years. Alexander was perhaps the most benevolent ruler Russia has ever had. He had freed the serfs, and at the time of his death had prepared a manifesto establishing a parliament as a first step toward giving the people representation in the government. He was killed by a bomb, and of course the manifesto was never issued. The only effect of the crime was to make the government more rigorous in its oppression.

Indeed, this has been the inevitable effect of such tragedies. Within the last half century the victims of the assassin's bullet or bomb have included a czar of Russia, a king of Italy, an empress and an archduke of Austria-Hungary, a president of France, a king and a crown prince of Portugal, and literally dozens of officials of lesser rank. Yet in no case has the effect been a loosening of the reins of government, which ostensibly is the object of the anarchist assassin; on the contrary, it has been quite the reverse.

In this country the three notable political assassinations were utterly wanton crimes. One president was slain by a man who fancied that he was avenging the wrongs of the South; another by a disappointed office seeker who was mentally unbalanced, and the third by an anarchist who doubtless was also crazy. Such crimes, both here and abroad, are probably inspired more by a desire to express resentment against organized government, without regard to the personality involved, than by the hope of accomplishing any political reform.

ILLITERACY

IN New York City there are 440,000 people more than ten years of age who can neither read nor write, and in 1910 nearly 368,000 of them were past school age. Of these 43 per cent were men and 57 per cent were women, and nine-tenths of them were foreign born. There were 170,000 men of voting age who are illiterate.

These figures are made on the authority of the Industrial League on Adult Illiteracy, and they reveal a condition which is positively shameful. Think of New York alone having a population of illiterates twice as great as the total population of the city of Denver! And think of the influence in the elections of 170,000 voters who are unable to read or write!

The report from which these figures are taken declares that the increasing number of illiterates in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut is due to immigration. It is decreasing in the South, despite the large negro population, while in six northern states, including besides those named, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania, there has been an increase of illiterates of 313,000 in the last twenty years.

In France, where a similar problem existed, more than a million adult illiterates were taught to read and write within a short time in special schools. Equally satisfactory results have been accomplished in some of the southern states, where it was found that adults were generally ashamed of their illiteracy and would make extraordinary efforts to take advantage of opportunities for instruction. Many of them regularly walked several miles to attend night schools opened for their benefit, and usually only a few weeks of instruction enabled them to learn to read and write well enough to answer their needs.

Illiteracy such as is shown to exist in some of the eastern states is worse than a reproach—it is a positive menace. To the individual it is a terrible handicap, impairing his earning capacity, lessening his opportunities for enjoyment, and exposing him to the impositions of demagogues and swindlers of every sort. Economically it is a cause of losses estimated at not less than half a billion dollars annually in the United States. It is a problem which might well engage the attention of the legislature in the states where it has assumed such proportions.

FROM OTHER PERSPECTIVES

EDISON LEARNS A LESSON FROM THE BEE
 From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.
 Thomas A. Edison acknowledges that a bee, casually captured in his garden, has given him much to think about in the simplification of the flying machine. He plans a battery of experiments, which shall enable him to hear with almost incredible accuracy. The bee, he finds, raises twice his own weight by wing-beats numbering more than 200 to the minute.

Long ago mankind was advised to study the ways of the ant for acquisition of wisdom. The difference between the mind of the great inventor and the average intellect is in the faculty of turning to creative account the phenomena that ordinarily pass unnoticed. The locomotive engineered from the kitchen kettle and the law of gravity was evolved from an apple which a schoolboy unthinkingly would have eaten. It is the seeing eye, the thinking brain that give significance to trivial things, and without this inductive capacity none of the marvels of electrical invention would have transformed the world.

PERILS OF THE POWDER PUFF

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
 Not satisfied with aiming a blow at the materialists of the country, the scientists have now come in a denunciation of the powder puff. It comes that a new class of the eye that has puzzled physiologists has been traced to the hitherto harmless variety of powdering the nose. Some traces of the powder, it is claimed, become secreted in the eyelids and cause an irritation and then a swelling that often leads to serious results.

But what are we going to do about it? It is not to be supposed that the mere decree of a scientist, or indeed, the decrees of a wilderness of scientists are going to rob lovely women of one of the things which they regard as essential to their attractiveness. The members of the gentler sex did not dab the tips of their adorable noses with the fluffy ends of the powder puff. In the olden days there was a mystery about the performance that gave it a sort of charm. It was one of the secrets of the toilet never to be revealed to mere men. But in the present age, when our ears are constantly assailed with hysterical cries concerning the rights of women, secrecy has been abandoned, and the powder puff is used openly in the street cars, in the theater and even on the streets.

The scientist need not expect to abolish the use of the powder puff, even for such a good cause as the saving of eyesight; but if they succeed in inducing a more discreet use of that adjunct to female beauty they will accomplish something.

THE GROWTH OF ADVERTISING

From the Christian Monitor.
 The growth of advertising that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives, although still to a large extent a mystery, is not nearly so much a fact today as it was 30 years or even a decade ago. The expansion of railways, the development of telegraphy, the advent of the wireless message and of the airplane, have all done much to make the world smaller. Few things, however, have so largely contributed to this result as the growth of advertising. It is not generally realized that the last 10 years has witnessed a complete revolution in the world's method of obtaining information. Before the advent of the daily press in any large development, news of all kinds filtered through to the general public largely by word of mouth.

with the advertising of holiday resorts is shortly to come before the British house of commons, and an outstanding feature in the recently issued South African budget is the sum of £25,000 "for advertising South Africa overseas."

Although for some time after it had taken up a definite place in the world's economy, advertising was looked upon by a large number of people with grave suspicion, and the advertiser was regarded as a natural enemy, this perfectly legitimate activity has gradually won its way to popular favor. The necessity for truthfulness in statement and faithfulness in carrying out engagements has been forced upon the advertising world, and today the tendency in this regard is all in the right direction. The advertiser, moreover, becomes more and more artistic. Public opinion demands a larger care for the fitness of things and the outcraze on the amenities of the beautiful in nature, so common some years ago, are steadily becoming less.

REVOLTING AGAINST GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK

Cleveland has again vindicated its claim to be recognized as a city that does things. It is not afraid of experiments and has outgrown that inertia which still lies most communities to the good old routine of the past. How hard it is to get people to alter their domestic habits! We are willing to spend hundreds of millions of dollars digging the Panama canal in order to alter the trade routes of the world or to spend even more millions on a war which may materially change the map of North America. But when it comes to striking against the tyranny of the house clock or the uneconomic arrangements of the calendar, we crawl cautiously back into the cavern of ancestral conventions.

Cleveland has put all its timepieces forward an hour so that the citizens may have the benefit of an hour more of daylight in the late afternoon, when daylight is of most value for open air enjoyment. Once carried out the plan seems almost commonplace in its simplicity and good sense. Yet how few cities would have had the moral and social courage to take such a liberty with the ancient fixed calendar of daily activities! In England, where there has been an agitation for putting the clocks forward in summertime so as to add greatly to the scope of outdoor summer recreation, inertia and loyalty to convention have always routed the reformers. They would probably do the same in this city, where, however, the advantage of the change would be somewhat less than in the high latitude of England. All honor, then, to Cleveland, which has shattered foolish traditions and is no longer willing to bow down blindly to the outworn running schedule of grandfathers' clock!

 A 18-foot ladder upon which James Kastner and William Franks were standing at the Bradley-Catron fire broke, letting the men fall a distance of more than twenty feet.

QUERY: HOW OLD WAS SHE WHEN SHE BECAME UNCONSCIOUS?

From the Chicago Examiner.
 A brick falling from the Hartford building struck Miss Dorothy Kelly on the shoulder and knocked her unconscious on the sidewalk. When she was revived she was 17 years old and lived at 1914 North Kedzie avenue.

RATHER

From the Sheboygan County News.
 A piano recital will be given at M. W. A. hall May 11 by Miss Agnes Goodell, assisted by Miss Minnie Gleason, in musical monologues; George Imig, vocal solos and Judge Otto Trilling, the bone reader who makes use of his own bones to accompany the piano. This will be one of the unique and pleasing features of the program.

THE RESOURCES OF MR. BLACK.

From the Port Hope (Ont.) Guide.
 His voice is a pure baritone and the vocal organs of Mr. Black must be of exquisite formation as he has resources in singing which command the study of the expert who has to hear all exponents and reject most of them. For softness and power, whisper and swell of tone Mr. Black possesses resources of exceptional value.

A Father's Fertile Scheme

BY RUTH CAMERON

On a certain street in a town where I used to live on a place, though no larger or more imposing, stands out from all the rest. Strangers passing often stop to look at it. The townspeople are proud of it and point it out to their visitors. And yet the house itself is no more attractive than several others on that street. It is simply the tasteful arrangement of handsome trees and shrubs which gives the place its air of distinction.

And there hangs a tale. There are six children in that house. Twenty-two years ago when the first child was born there was nothing distinctive about the place, but on that day the proud father, wishing to commemorate the event in some extra-special way, went out into the woods, brought home two magnificent trees, and planted them at the entrance to the little driveway. Today they stand, two stately sentinels guarding the gate.

That was the beginning of a custom. On the day of each child's birth, and on the anniversary of each birthday, the father has planted at least one tree, shrub or plant as his birthday present to the child. The children have other gifts of course, but none in which they take more interest and pleasure than their father's.

Of course each tree or plant is known by the name of its owner. The sentinel fir are "Robert's firs." Mary, the next oldest, has a pair of apple trees, planted on the day of her birth, in which she can now climb. For the last four years they have borne splendid crops of apples which are looked on as Mary's particular property, although she shares them with the rest of the family.

All this has been done on three-quarters of an acre of land, and with scarcely larger expenditure than any father in moderate circumstances makes on his children's gifts.

Don't you think that is—rather good enough to be limited?

THE REPORTER

A reporter is a young man who blocks out the first draft of history each day on a rheumatic typewriter. It is his business to accompany the earth on its revolutions and transcribe notes of the trip into readable matter. There are about 50,000,000 square miles of land on this planet and if anything is to happen on any of this land without attracting the attention of some reporter with an industrious lead pencil it must take place in a future and secret manner.

At one time, it was necessary to sit on the fence and interview passively most of the time in order to find out what was happening. The reporter has relieved mankind of this burden. While we sleep at night the reporter attends fires, prize fights, murders, earthquakes, cyclones, tango parties, directors' meetings and secret gatherings of frenzied financiers and stuffs the proceedings thereof into the early morning newspaper. Thanks to the reporter, we can now learn at the breakfast table what is going to happen tomorrow and can make a fair guess at what happened yesterday.

"It was necessary to sit on the fence and interview passively most of the time in order to find out what was happening."

At one time, it was necessary to attend political meetings during a campaign in order to hear the speeches. Now the reporters attend the meetings and the voter reads the speeches on his way down town in the street car. For this reason alone, the reporter is an inestimable boon to humanity.

To be a good reporter, one must have an investigative disposition, an indomitable pair of legs, a set of feelings protected by Harveyized armor and a great aversion to sleep. He should also be well versed in politics, baseball, fishing, the various branches, the habits and hiding places of financiers, the movements of ocean steamships, the cost of blubbery pavement, the names of banquet dishes, the amount of butter fat in good milk, the legal rate of interest in Oklahoma, the legislation pending in 49 states, the batting averages of Capt. Anjou in 1884, the names of Pierpont Morgan's children, the Bertillon measurements of F. I. Crowe, the date of the Titanic disaster, the time of last term on all lines, the changes in schedule for the next million miscellaneous subjects of equal importance.

At one time, a knowledge of English was necessary, but the perfection of modern newspaper enterprise has fortunately relieved the reporter of this burden.

Reporters once followed events and gathered up news. Now they arrange events when news is scarce, accompany history hand in hand and meet invading armies with cameras and notebooks.

For all his work, the reporter gets as much money as a poor plumber. But he is permitted to loiter around back of the scenes and watch humanity putting on its show—which is no interest, that reporting is as hard to give up as other stimulants.

Reporters do not become rich, but they could if they told all they knew. Because they do not do this, we should be grateful to them and not tell them all the things we don't know—which is at present the great American diversion.

MAY FESTIVAL

From the Japan Society Bulletin.
 Boys' fete on May 5 is a day of universal rejoicing throughout the country. Especially for the household with little boys. A few days previous to the festival day, by the households with little boys, colored streamers and flags of old military style, and big carps of paper or cloth, are hoisted high up on long poles erected in the gardens or yards of their houses. The carps are considered in Japan to be auspicious, brave and gentle in nature, that is, fitted with the spirit of samurai. Within the house, artificial dolls dressed mostly in ancient armor, representing famous heroes and prominent personages of olden times, and small military flags and streamers and carps, are anxiously arranged in rows on stands. The exhibition of dolls of ancient greatness is meant to inspire thereby the little boys with aspiration to become eminent men like them.

HOTELS IN JAPAN

From Teiji's Japan.
 There are at present 206 hotels in the empire for the accommodation of foreigners, with 4,182 rooms and lodgings for 4,182 persons, and the number grows steadily. Some, physical and climatic considerations have necessarily entered largely into the construction of the principal hotels, and the absence of that exaggerated and useless luxury, now such a pronounced characteristic of some occidental hotels, is of direct advantage to the traveler of modest means, since he is not expected to pay heavily for something which he can not use. The standard of cleanliness, punctuality, trustworthiness, personal attention to guests and an ever-present eagerness to make their stay comfortable, are higher than those of many European hotels.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 3, 1884.

Nearly 60 guests arrived at the Mansion in Manitou from the evening train.

Mayor Humphrey issued a proclamation designating the open space in front of the stone school house as the only place in the city where fireworks could lawfully be set off. Small firecrackers could be fired in the middle of the streets and in the parks.

L. B. Farrar was preparing to open the hotel at Seven Lakes for the summer. Seven Lakes was quite a summer resort in those days.

It was one of the warmest days of the season, the thermometer registering 90 degrees in the shade.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 3, 1894.

The employees of the Midland joined the general railroad strike then in progress all over the country, completely tying up that road.

The funeral of the late Judge William Harrison was held at Grace church. Judge Harrison had been a prominent member of the bar in this city for many years and was at one time on the district bench.

There were said to be over 1,200 men at work in the various mines of the Cripple Creek district.

Rain interfered with a bicycle lantern parade that had been planned for a Fourth of July eve event.

VALUE OF SERENITY

"The emotional instability of the neuroathetic and continual worry or fear in the normal person probably subject them to the detriment of their vegetative activities, particularly of digestion." These are the words not of a mental therapist but of Professor Haskins of Northwestern university.

Canon of Harvard has shown that an outburst of fear or anger, or a severe pain, will stop the secretion of the digestive juices and, what is more important, will stop the muscular activities of the digestive organs, and these effects will continue for some time after the emotion has subsided or the pain has ceased.

Furthermore, Carlson of the University of Chicago tells us that the hunger contractions of the stomach can be stimulated or stopped by directing the mind to them or by keeping the mind occupied with something else.

So far as the first two of these observations are concerned, the scientists have gone a step further and shown just how the wheels go around. The kidney is a small gland, sometimes called the adrenal, and sometimes the suprarenal. This gland secretes a chemical substance known as epinephrine.

Whenever a man gets angry or afraid, or suffers violent pain, this gland is stimulated. It pours out a large amount of secretion. This secretion stops the intestines from moving, hampers the stomach and generally interferes with digestion and assimilation. It drives most of the blood out of the blood vessels in the abdomen and increases the blood in the muscles.

Another allied fact is this: It increases the amount of sugar in the blood, and if the man is a diabetic, after a little the sugar in the urine increases. The muscles burn sugar to make energy. Therefore, the chemical indirectly stimulates the muscles to act by furnishing them with an incense blood supply it simultaneously arranges for them an increased sugar supply.

Two groups of people therefore should be especially careful to be always serene—one is the diabetics; the other those with high blood pressure, particularly if they belong to apoplexy families.

The neuroathetic is never happy unless he can be counted on. We can easily put him in with the apoplectics and the diabetics. His worries and his fears stimulate his adrenals and they in turn interfere with his digestion. The hysterical has even a better right to get in. Her emotional explosions are ideal for starting this series of wheels to whirling.

The insomnia falls to sleep because the brain is not taking. The adrenal gland is often in a state of distress, or in some other form. Suppose we add him.

Instead of running up the list, why not say that man improve their digestion by leading placid, unemotional lives, free from anger, hatred, envy, worry, fear?

My attention has been called to the statement in J. M. D's letter published recently that I say that neuroathetic is incurable. I do not say that neuroathetic is incurable. It is curable. I say that it is very hard to cure. Not all cases are cured. The tobacco habit neuroathetic is a bad mental habit. It is a habit requiring years for its development. Any man who goes about a cure intelligently with a fixed deter-

ROADS IN MEXICO

From the Engineering Record.
 If General Huerta dynamites the bridges on the railroad lines between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, the road and trails will be the only road open to the United States troops in event of orders to advance upon Mexican capital. The airline distance is about 200 miles and the country, characterized by extreme ruggedness. Obviously the building of roads under such conditions presents problems vastly different from those with which engineers in this country are familiar. Throughout rural Mexico there are roads of inferior construction, in large measure are mere trails of which pack trains may pass. The trails, however, are so vulnerable that they cannot be used for the transport of heavy loads. The work involved in building a route through to the capital cannot be fully appreciated. Those unfamiliar with construction in the tropics, with the type of soil available and the physical character of the country. The thought cannot be suppressed that an advance upon Mexico City—give advance by certain lines—probably will probably be fraught with much hardship and is of life.

Kings Are Movie Fans

MANY EUROPEAN MONARCHS HAVE THEIR OWN CINEMA THEATERS

From the Kansas City Star.

Developed from its original form, as one of the acts in rather inferior vaudeville, the motion picture has steadily gained in quality and popularity until its actors include some of the greatest living artists; its audience is comprised of every race and station, and its range of appeal covers in a measure practically the whole field of every other act. The latest testimonial to its success comes from the Motion Picture Magazine and is to the effect that the movie has gained a considerable number of royal patrons abroad, who are most enthusiastic in their devotion to this art, and in many cases have provided themselves with private cinema, regularly appointed, in which favorite pictures of their selection may be given for the entertainment of the royal families and guests. There are, for example, the rulers of Great Britain and Germany.

King George, after seeing "Quo Vadis" at the Royal Albert hall, in London, gave out instructions for a miniature cinema theater to be erected at Buckingham palace.

In making this move, his majesty has studied the interests of the royal children, who had never witnessed a cinema exhibition before. The king and queen think highly of the educational value of the cinematograph, and this is one of their chief reasons for introducing this innovation.

Kaiser a Picture Fan.

The Kaiser confesses himself to be a picture "fan." He has had a motion picture theater built in the Potsdam palace, so that he can entertain a number of distinguished guests whenever he desires to. The films shown mainly relate to current events in which the Kaiser has participated.

The Christmas before last he published a handsome volume entitled, "The Kaiser on Film." The book contains reproductions from different films, which serve to show the Kaiser in all of his varied activities.

The Kaiser first took a liking to the "pictures" on one of his recent summer cruises to the North Cape aboard the Hohenzollern. He discovered the court photographer, who always travels with him, in the act of taking a moving picture one day. The same night, when the film in question was shown aboard the yacht, the Kaiser was hugely delighted with what he saw. From that time onward he has always posed as cheerfully as possible for motion picture camera men, and under all circumstances.

And there is Carmen Sylvia of Roumania, who has not only the fun of having her own theater in the Pelesh castle at Sinal, and a company providing her with the latest achievements in motion photography, but enjoys, as well the pleasure of dramatizing her own novels in picture form. These are acted by the Nordisk company and performed at her behest.

Carmen Sylvia Likes Wild West Films.

Almost every evening this royal personage is to be found in the theater, along with her suite and guests, viewing some of the latest films with evident enjoyment. The queen is very partial to "wild west" pictures because of their delightful scenery and the intensely human phases, sometimes requiring one such play to be run over three or four times.

Roumania's queen's enthusiasm for moving pictures is so keen that she has now engaged a special photographer to film the private life in the palace and its estates from day to day. Shortly afterward these are shown in the royal cinema.

Eastward, shutter and film take their way; even the ex-sultan of Morocco, Mulai Abdul Aziz, has succumbed to their fascination. After witnessing the kinemacolor pictures of the coronation and the Durbar, he immediately had himself instructed in the technique of natural color photography, and forthwith ordered for his residence in Algiers a complete installation of the apparatus, cameras and a full library of films. The fair dancers of the harem, who once won smiles and plaudits for their agility and grace, must languish now. A new goddess, Cinema, has supplanted them. But they might have been forewarned; the lady in question has made her conquests with equal assurance throughout the world.

Even Manuel Liked Them.

The khedive, the czar and the new president of China have not been heard from, but this is doubtless only because proper inquiry has not been made. Even in far away Greece a royal command cinema performance has been given. The ex-king of Portugal, before his marriage, found the movies an excellent cure for the blues, and, when the memory of his enforced abdication weighed too heavily upon him, was wont to frequent, in one of the theaters in Richmond, England, where he was staying. No other royal movie fan, however, has ever managed to work up an enthusiasm for this form of entertainment equal to that of King Alfonso of Spain.

Until four months ago, he used to keep four court photographers at his various palaces, whose duties were to snap his majesty at all times and in all postures. Now he has attached a cinema operator at the palace at Madrid, where he has a bioscope theater, which has been converted from a billiard room. Hardly a day passes without King Alfonso visiting the royal cinema. On the screen daily appear the very latest pictures of the monarch.

Why only during his last visit to Paris, he arranged that the films covering his movements there should be dispatched promptly to Madrid, in order that Queen Ena would be able to see them without delay. Each day, exactly 18 hours after the actual event took place, the king's wish was gratified, for Queen Ena and her children saw them on the screen in the royal theater. The little princes soon recognized their father, and cheered him enthusiastically.

But even this speed of production does not satisfy the exacting audience, for Queen Ena is now looking wistfully forward to the day when motion pictures may be transmitted by telegraph as they are being taken. There is no end to dreams, apparently, even when one is king.

AMERICAN CREWS SWEEP THAMES, SHOWING BETTER FORM THAN ANY BRITISH EIGHTHarvard Oarsmen Favorites for Winner of Event; Cups Will Come Across Water

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 2.—The Grand Challenge cup, the "blue-ribbon" event of English rowing, will go abroad this year for the first time in nine years. America probably will be its resting place for the ensuing year, after which it must be returned to the stewards of the Henley regatta, to be competed for again.

In the first series of heats for the Grand Challenge cup today the English crews were eliminated. The Harvard second eight disposed of Leander; the Union Boat club eight of Boston defeated the London Rowing club; Winnipeg had an easy victory over the Thames Rowing club, and the German crew of Mayence, won from Jesus college, Cambridge, in the fastest time of the day and hard pushed at the end.

The four visiting crews will compete tomorrow in the second series and the winners will row the final on Saturday. Harvard will row Winnipeg shortly after 1 o'clock and the Boston and Mayence eights will measure blades two hours later.

From the form shown today, the Harvard men are favorites, although with the exception of Mayence, the others were not extended. The Union crew of Boston merely paddled over the course. They started with a 39-stroke and eased off to 32. They did not find it necessary to again extend themselves, but hit up a faster stroke just before they crossed the line.

FLYING BOAT CARRIES BIG

Pounds Load Curties to Believe Craft Will Cross Atlantic

HAMMONDSPORE, N. Y., July 2.—The America, the flying boat built for Rodman Wanamaker, made several flights this afternoon, piloted by Glenn H. Curtiss, carrying the heaviest loads with which she has so far been burdened. The gross weight of the machine on one flight was more than 5,000 pounds.

The weight of the so-called "useful load" was estimated at more than 2,100 pounds. On this flight Curtiss carried seven passengers, Dr. A. F. Zahm of the Smithsonian Institution was among others who were given a ride during the afternoon.

Though the load carried exceeded somewhat that which will be required in the proposed transatlantic flight, Mr. Curtiss expressed his intention of doing some further experimental work with the hull before preparing to ship the flying boat to Newfoundland. He seemed to think a still larger margin of safety in fuel carrying can be produced.

Today in place of the auxiliary hydro boards, with which the machine was temporarily equipped, two pontoons were attached to the wings

BRITISH CHAMPION WHO IS READY FOR
RITCHIE IN LONDON

A battle for the lightweight championship of the world—the first since Kid Lavigne went across to take the British championship from Dick Burge, and thereby won the lightweight championship of the world—will take place in London July 7. Willie Ritchie, the American champion, and Freddie Welsh, who holds the British title, will meet before one of the largest crowds that has ever seen a boxing match. Sporting men have predicted a house of $100,000. Should the receipts reach that large sum, Ritchie will get $50,000 and Welsh $15,000.

Welsh is a very clever boxer, and at the same time a very light hitter. The photograph shows him in position to land his lightning left hook. It is a very fast, but carries no sting. While he punches, it won't hurt the American. It will, he says, however, in five or six points against him for 24 rounds. Should he lose, American sporting men believe, it will be the last blow made by the light blow of Welsh. But few expect him to lose.

Mars in Cincinnati Bout

CINCINNATI, July 2.—Johnny Kilbane, champion featherweight, fought 10 rounds here tonight with "Knockout" Mars of this city. No decision was given, but the ex-champion had the better of most of the rounds. Kilbane was cautious in the first three rounds and Mars was aggressive. In the next two rounds Kilbane forced the fighting and took a commanding lead. In the last five rounds Mars continually went into clinches and hung onto Kilbane so that the latter was unable to land a decisive blow. The newspaper and popular verdict awarded the fight to Kilbane.

SECONDARY DEFENSE NEEDED TO MAKE BASEBALL TEAM A WINNER; M'GRAW PROVES IT

NEW YORK, June 27.—John McGraw of this town, seems to have said something when he remarked that a baseball team is only as strong as its secondary defense and that no team need have any pennant hopes unless it is equipped with a second team that can take up the first team's burden immediately and efficiently.

One of the big reasons for the success of the Giants is the fact that McGraw always has aimed to have a set of substitutes who could jump into the shoes of the regulars and perform in equal style. Many fans and managers have thought that McGraw was wasting money when he spent huge sums simply to acquire substitutes, but the wisdom of his actions have been shown.

Fletcher, the Giant regular shortstop, sustained injuries that put him out of the game for a lengthy period this season just at a time when the Giants were fighting to hold their first place position. Fletcher was a bulwark of strength to the Giants' infield. The Giants' rivals figured that with Fletcher on the shelf the infield would become wobbly and the Giants would hit the chubbies.

Grant Was in Reserve.

Big they didn't because McGraw had Eddie Grant in reserve. Grant jumped into the game and played in a way that made the loss of Fletcher almost unnoticed. He fielded in brilliant style and batted up around the 300 mark.

McGraw's first sacker, was forced out of the game on account of "chubby horse." But his absence was hardly felt. McGraw hauled Snodgrass in from the outfield and placed him on first where he is almost as good in the garden as in the field. McGraw filled Snodgrass' place in the field with one of the three extra outfielders that he has been carrying.

It platters up the Giants' payroll to carry several extra outfielders, infielders, pitchers and a second string of pitchers, but in the long run it returns a profit for the Giants. If the Giants' regular team comes to the fore and keeps the team up in the race, the business of sticking at the top or near the top always means good crowds when the Giants are one part of the attraction, and the increased attendance more than makes up for the $15,000 to $25,000 that is added to the annual payroll through the carrying of extra players.

Further than this, the fact that the Giants' second team can take up the fight when the first team is incapacitated, has on five occasions resulted in the Giants winning the pennant and grabbing a slice of the world series m.

So Has Some.

Connie's another exponent of the strong second team idea. And Connie, as many may remember, has won no many pennants and world series flags that he's had to build an extra room in his home in which to store them. Last season Connie was criticized by some persons who figured that he was carrying too many men, especially pitchers on his payroll. But the wisdom of it soon became apparent. When Plank and Bender, his two dependable veterans, failed to hit a winning stride early in the year, Connie trotted out his youth-

EARLY WINS, JINX TO TEAMS; SPURTS SEND TEAMS DOWN

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, June 13.—A baseball game won in April or May counts just as much as one that's garnered in September or October, but a bunch of games won in the early part of the season seem to handicap a team's chances for the pennant.

It has been the almost invariable rule in baseball that the teams that got a big lead at the outset hit the chutes later on and skidded off into some remote position in the standing of the clubs.

The Pirates and Tigers got away to a fine start during the first month this season and then they crumbled. The pace-making had been too hard. Later on they may do a come-back but the law of baseball's past seems to forbid it.

The Cincinnati Reds "blew" themselves to a nice lead in the first month of 1912—and then they cracked. The Brooklyn Dodgers skipped along at a merry clip through the first four weeks in 1914, and just when the Brooklynites were dreaming world series dreams the upset came, and the Dodgers finished in second division.

Back in 1905 the Naps led by over 100 points until June time. And then the reversal came and they ended the season at the tail end of the first division.

Win Early and Then Skid.

The Tigers lost only two of the first 20 games played in 1911 and looked powerful enough to keep it up. Then the boomerang connected on its homeward journey and the Tigers were never again in the fight. The Giants harpooned a 16-game lead in 1912 and then the game winning machinery went out of order. The Cubs came thundering along and carved down most of the lead and looked good to jump into first place when they too began to skid. This gave the Giants a chance to get their sea legs again and they slipped under the October wire ahead of the field. But even with that 16-game lead it was a close squeak.

Is this early spurt stuff a hoodoo? There is much ado about the pitching device that was invented by a Princeton personage. There's nothing new in that as we view the situation. Haven't we had "iron men" pitchers for the last 10 years? Nor can we see anything new in the fact that this Princeton pitcher has no head. There are a number of pitchers in the big leagues today who are similarly equipped—or rather, nonequipped.

The reason there is less interest in the Federal league race than in the American or National, according to some folk, is this:

"What are the Feds going to do with the pennant when it's won?"

Which is a pretty good reason at that. The interest in the National and American leagues always is keen because of the world series that follows the end of the regular season. In the case of the Feds, they can't horn into a world series—not this year at least.

The Feds Again.

One of the sport writers who is extremely friendly toward organized baseball and who has been predicting a horrible end for the Feds is just now borrowing more trouble for the Gilmore crowd. Quite recently he discovered that if the Feds sign up Walter Johnson at $100,000 for a three-year period, they will be taking desperate chances.

He figures that Johnson's arm might go on the Fritz before those three years are over and what good would he be? It's a cinch, however, that if there wasn't a Federal league and if some organized ball club bought Johnson, paying $150,000 for him, this very same writer would be loudest in his praise of the magnate's shrewd business judgment and it's also a cinch that he would consider the possibility of Johnson's arm falling.

The Feds are said to be retaliating for the action of organized baseball in sending nose counters into their parks. They have hired nose counters of their own and these mathematicians are engaged in adding up the total of persons who enter the organized parks and turning their additions over to the Federal league officials for comparison with the attendance figures given out by the organized people. It is said that the reports show big discrepancies in the attendance report of nose counters and those given out by the clubs as estimates. But who cares?

World Series Crowds.

Members of the Giants' Athletics and a few other teams that still nourish pennant winning hopes are wondering if the general apathy toward baseball this year on the part of the fans will extend to the world series. It would be a cruel blow for the world series players if it did for they usually count on about $2,500 for their share if they win and $2,000 or so if they lose.

If the world series attendance shows a decrease to correspond with the general decrease all over both circuits this year the boys may have to struggle along during the winter with just about half of what they have been hoping to get.

HOW "JIMMY THE JOKE" GOT HIS NAME

In the July American Magazine appears another "Boston Blackie" story written by Number 8606, at the present time a convict in a western penitentiary. In the course of the story appears a character named James Tener, known as "Jimmy the Joke." The following explains how he became known as "Jimmy the Joke."

"Long years before he had done a job in a western penitentiary. The judge sentenced him to ten years."

"Is that meant as a joke, Your Honor?" queried the prisoner blandly.

"A joke," ejaculated the old judge.

"Yes, Your Honor," replied the prisoner, "I was a convict. Didn't I just understand you to say a 'tender' for Tener?"

FOREST FIRES AFFECT STREAMFLOW

Residents of Wallace, Idaho, now claim that results of the disastrous forest fires in northern Idaho in 1910 are being made evident in the changed flow from a watershed then burned over, which furnishes the water supply of the city. This basin included an area of approximately 2,000 acres and was formerly well timbered with trees from 80 to 200 years old. These were almost wholly destroyed by the fires of 1910. From this watershed the city gets its supply not only for domestic purposes, but also for the development of electricity for power and light, so that the maintenance of a considerable flow is essential to the city.
